Washington employers and with those elsewhere who offer positions. The Government is still doing considerable construction work at camps and the local office has been sending carpenters, plasterers and mechanics to these points. Unskilled labor is yet in demand, with a scarcity in Washington and this section, so much so that unskilled labor is being brought from the North and else where to fill the Government's demands at various points. Very recently several hundred laborers were sent to the Government's torpedo station at Alexandria, brought here from outside. A large number were brought from the North and sent to Indian Head, where the Government

A Serious Factor.

A really serious factor in the situation, as seen here, will be the presence common laborers into skilled work The problem of what to do with all men. The ranks of common labor were drawn on heavily by the demand each day. As a rule employers of for skilled men. In all sorts of induslabor in this city are promising extra tries and in the building trades there efforts to make openings for local was quick conversion of men from men. Some of them are going so 'ar ordinary labor to skilled or semipected to defer until cost conditions up with the change. They do not grew better. It is this sort of spirit want to go back to laboring work or help the bureau and executive com. to lower wages. Yet work is not open to them.

There came to Washington at the beginning of the war thousands of Questionnaires sent to 2,500 District mechanics lured here by the immense employers of labor some time ag. | amount of Government construction outlook unless everybody lends a of the problem Washington is now

> Want Clerical Work. Too many soldiers are seeking clerial positions. Not many of these are to be had. The wives of some of them came to Washington to accept clerical positions and they want to stay here. That is adding to the total of unemployed. Washington is a city of attraction, and there are five large camps near here which are daily dismissing soldiers. Great numbers of the men are coming here hunting employment They are advised to return to their former homes or to places where the surplus of men is not so large. Hundreds decline this advice, and many go out and hunt employment.

The policy of the Bureau of Employment for Men Returning from Military Service is to give local men whatever places are open. About 15,000 District men were drafted into the army. About 1.500 of them have returned to Washington and a large proportion given back their old places or put into new ones.

What to do with the others who earnest appeal to all employers of labor to do their utmost to find work for District soldiers.

The soldier who goes back to his not always, displaces somebody else -a boy or a woman. As the soldiers come back in larger numbers the displacement increases. The employer feels an obligation to be fair to those who have helped him in the stress of war times. His obligation to the soldier is greatest. That is another serious phase of the situation in Washington, although it exists elsewhere also. What's to be come of the human forces that stopped the gap while the men were at the

Cartoonist Goldberg in Europe; Will Draw and Write His Impressions

HIS picture represents Cartoonia R. L. Goldberg's impression of himself while going aboard the White Star liner Adriatic, bound for Liverpool. Mr. Goldberg sailed a few weeks ago, and is off for a stay of five or six weeks in London and Paris,

You will observe that his equipment includes a pen and artist's bristol board, which leads to the easy and natural conclusion that he will draw some of his famous cartoons while on the other side, for publication among them about in The Times Look again, and you will observe that he is taking his typewriter along, too. Mr. Goldberg is ambidex-terous. He can draw cartoons with his right hand and at the same time write funny stories with his left hand. If cartoons ever go out of style-and confidentally, it doesn't look as though they ever would-he former position frequently, although could make a good living writing humorous stories. Nothing daunts him. He can report anything from a wrestling bout to a tea fight, but he much prefers the wrestling assignment.

Many newspaper men have of late been hurrying to France to cover the peace conference. That job will be well done without his aid. Mr. Goldberg thinks, so he will devote his energies for a few weeks to some of the human interest phases of life overseas following the restoration of peace. American soldier and sailor boys on the other side will be given special consideration.

When Kaiser Bill turned the world upside down in 1914, Cartoonist Goldberg was doing a leisurely tour of Europe. Seeing that all the other Americans were rushing for home as fast as they could go, he also took his departure. He wasn't through, however. Now he is going back to finish the job, but it is easy to foresee how different he will find conditions now.

The readers of The Times are certain to be interested in Mr. Goldberg's impressions. The first of his new cartoons and articles will appear within a few days.
